

Sir, The moving letters about loneliness in old age reminded me of my grandmother's often repeated belief that only the very brave enter their later years without being able to play bridge.